
pair069_h_s1.dot:

Anderson and colleagues used fetal neural stem cells , a type that are slightly more developed than embryonic stem cells because they 're destined to make cells for the central nervous system .