

pair491_T_s2.dot:

U.S. policy on drug trafficking is not consistent with the need to put an end and actively repress the consumption of drugs . The solution is not based on the destruction of a native plant , coca , in the continent , but on an active fight against the Colombian drug mafia , which has created a great money and crime empire in Colombia with powerful ramifications outside its borders .